Homes are reflections of the individuals who reside in them – they tell stories of the families and give guests a glimpse into the lives of the owners. And this home emits a sense of warmth and welcome the moment one enters.

"Our home is our sanctuary – it is filled with faith, happiness and tons of love," says the owner, and this is clearly visible in each room.

Colours are neutral and earthy with nature-inspired wallcoverings that serve as focal points in the spaces they occupy. The floors in the open-plan living areas were kept uniform to convey a sense of continuity for a seamless finish.

To really appreciate the love, patience, attention to detail and proper planning that went into the creation of this home, one just needs to look at the lighting. The kitchen, dining area, entrance foyer and main bedroom house exquisitely designed lighting fixtures that stand out as features in their own right.

A main source of inspiration for the home's design was also the golf course, and as the owners wanted to maximise the views, glass in abundance was used. This also brings in more natural light, enhancing the warmth that this home is now loved for.

As advice for future home owners, this owner says that making sure you have a great relationship with your
